Mrs. Gilbert Appreciates.

Mrs. Elizabeth Gilbert, widow of the late Hon. Edwin Gilbert of Georgetown, Conn., and to whom the teachers of the public school tendered an ovation during her recent visit here, has addressed a letter to the teachers and pupils of which the following is a copy:

I wish to thank you one and all for the opportunity given me to look upon your faces, and to take each one by the hand; but owing to my surprise and excited feelings, my lips would not let me say what welled up in my heart, as I thought of the donor of the building you so highly appreciate, and which he could only have been permitted to see you all as I did. He too, would have shed tears of joy. I trust his spirit was there and beheld that scene—heard that fine account of the school—listened to our national hymn, as sung by your sweet voices.

I was much pleased and happy to learn that such an advance had been made and that so many boys and girls are having the benefit of education for

"This education forms the mind, just as the twig is bent, the tree's inclined."

The school reflects great credit on you as teachers, as well as on your town officers, and the board of education, maintaining as you have, the primary, up and on to the more advanced classes, even including the languages.

The good sized library you have added also shows your bent of mind, and the liberality of the public and community and will always be a source of pleasure and lasting benefit.

"For knowledge is power."

To each child whose hand I clasped I hope it will always be doing good in his, or her, sphere to the best of their ability and my prayer is that their feet may be found walking in the paths of righteousness.

When I return to my Connecticut home I shall send you a photo framed, to hang upon the walls of your school room, of my lamented husband, whose face when you look upon it, may be a stimulus for you to study as was his greatest wish.

Please accept these few lines from your true friend and well wisher, ELIZABETH GILBERT, Daytona, Feb. 28th, 1910.
